Section I. PURPOSE

Mitsubishi UFJ Investor Services & Banking (Luxembourg) S.A. (hereafter “MUFG” or “the Bank”) and its branch Mitsubishi UFJ Investor Services & Banking (Luxembourg) S.A., Dublin Branch (hereafter “MUFG Dublin Branch”), are committed to conducting its business with the highest ethical standards and complying fully with its legal and regulatory obligations. As a result of the wide range of financial services provided, the Bank may face both actual and perceived conflicts of interest.

The Bank’s Policy is to take all reasonable steps to maintain and operate effective organizational and administrative arrangements to identify, prevent, manage and monitor relevant conflicts which may arise or have arisen in the normal course of its business activities and operations, either on a one/off basis or on a more recurring basis, and which entails a material risk of damage to the interests of the clients. The Authorized Management of the Bank is responsible for ensuring that the systems, controls and procedures are adequate to manage conflicts of interest. The Compliance department of the Bank assists in the management of actual and potential conflicts of interest.

Each employee is required to comply with the guidelines set out below and to bring to the attention of the Compliance department and the Head(s) of the relevant business unit any circumstances he or she may be aware that give rise to conflicts of interest. Employees may use the form included in Appendix II of the Policy or via any other form (e-mail, telephone or in person) provided that all details in relation with the conflict are recorded.

This Policy seeks to address, in broad terms, the material types of conflicts of interest that are relevant to the Bank, its clients and any other relevant person involved in the business activities of the Bank (such as employees). This Policy also aims to meet the Bank’s regulatory obligations pursuant to the requirements of CSSF Circular 12/552 as amended, the MiFID II Regulation in order to act honestly, fairly and professionally in the best interests of its clients and to put client’s interests ahead of its own and the UCITS/AIFMD provisions to ensure that the UCI depositary act honestly, fairly, professionally, independently and solely in the interest of the UCI and the unit-holders / share-holders

The overall objective of this Policy is to set out guidelines for identifying existing or potential conflicts of interest, the procedures, and restrictions on the activities of the Bank, its directors, and employees aimed at minimizing the risks of conflicts arising and minimizing the damage to the interests of the Bank’s clients where the conflicts are unavoidable.

Accordingly, the Bank will:

- Identify situations where conflicts of interest may arise or have arisen, entailing a material risk of damage to the client’s interests by reference to the specific services and activities carried out by the Bank;
- Establish appropriate procedures, mechanisms and systems to manage and monitor those conflicts;

- Maintain procedures and systems designed to prevent actual damage to the client's interests through any identified conflicts;
- Maintain records of such conflict of interest (including potential conflicts of interest); and
- Communicate main arrangements and rules to the Bank's employees and related branches and subsidiaries, if any.

It has to be noted that the Bank is not providing the following services to its clients:

- Investment research and advice;
- Discretionary Portfolio Management/Collective Portfolio Management activities;
- Corporate finance activities, including underwriting or selling when offering securities, or advising on mergers and acquisitions.

Section II. OWNERSHIP: CREATION / PERIODIC REVIEW / AMENDMENT

This Policy is created, owned and maintained by the Compliance Department for use across the Bank and its branch.

Any amendment to this Policy shall be approved by the Executive Committee and by the Board of Directors.

Section III. DEFINITION

A conflict of interest may involve a situation where, within the course of the Bank's activities, the interests of the Bank and/or its clients (e.g. Funds/Investors of such Funds, Management Companies), or employees or any other Relevant Person compete directly or indirectly. Some of these conflicts may arise because the Bank is involved in a broad range of business activities with different clients. Other may arise because of the specific circumstances of particular business activities.

A particular activity or situation may be found to involve a conflict of interest even though it does not result in any financial loss to the Bank or its clients or any gain to the Bank or an employee, and irrespective of the motivations of the employee involved.

For the purposes of the Policy, "Relevant Person" means any of the following:

- A director, partner or equivalent, manager or appointed representative (or where applicable, tied agent) of the Bank;
- A director, partner or equivalent, or manager of any appointed representative (or where applicable, tied agent) of the Bank;
- An employee of the Bank or of an appointed representative (or where applicable, a tied agent) of the Bank, as well as any other natural person, whose services are placed at the disposal and under the control of the Bank or a tied agent of the

Conflicts of Interest Management Policy

Bank and who is involved in the provision by the Bank of regulated activities;

- A natural person who is directly involved in the provision of services to the Bank or to its appointed representative (or where applicable, tied agent) under an outsourcing arrangement for the purpose of the provisions by the Bank of investment services and activities.

A conflict may arise between any of the following (but not limited to):

- The Bank and the client;
- Two clients of the Bank;
- Investors in the same fund;
- An employee and the client;
- Two employees of the Bank;
- One or more employees and the Bank;
- A service provider and the Bank.

A conflict of interest may arise in any area of the Bank's business activities, for instance when providing to its clients a service, which may benefit to the Bank (or another client for whom the Bank is acting) whilst potentially and materially damaging another client where the Bank owes a duty to the client.

Conflicts of interest situations may also appear between the Bank and service providers when the services may be agreed in terms that may benefit to the Bank or a "Relevant Person".

Additionally, the Bank should comply with specific requirements relating to conflicts of interest involving related parties that will be described in the following sections. As per defined on Circular CSSF 12/552, transactions with related parties "include all types of transactions. This includes both on-balance sheet and off-balance sheet credit exposures and claims, but also dealings such as service contracts, asset purchases and sales, construction contracts, lease agreements, derivative transactions, borrowings, and write-offs. It encompasses transactions with parties that would become related parties as a result of the transaction, or where it is determined at the time of the transaction, that the contracting party will become a related party".

The conflicts mentioned in this Policy are examples of conflicts of interest and do not constitute an exhaustive list. The Bank's staff must consider all activities carried out in order to identify and escalate any conflicts that may arise.

In addition, when assessing the existence of conflicts of interest, MIBL should identify actual or potential conflicts of interest in accordance with the institution's conflicts of interest Policy and assess their materiality. At least the following situations that could create actual or potential conflicts of interests should be considered:

a. economic interests (e.g., shares, other ownership rights and memberships, holdings and other economic interests in commercial customers, intellectual property rights, loans granted by the institution to a company owned by members of the management body);

- b. personal or professional relationships with the owners of qualifying holdings in the institution;
- c. personal or professional relationships with staff of the institution or entities included within the scope of prudential consolidation (e.g., close family relationships);
- d. other employments and previous employments within the recent past (e.g. five years);
- e. personal or professional relationships with relevant external stakeholders, (e.g. being associated with material suppliers, consultancies or other service providers);
- f. membership in a body or ownership of a body or entity with conflicting interests;
- g. political influence or political relationships

Section IV. LEGAL AND REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

Main regulatory requirements applying to the Bank in relation to conflicts of interest are as follow:

Section V. SCOPE OF APPLICATION

This Conflict of Interest Policy is applicable to all employees of the Bank, as well as employees of its branch, including the Authorized Management of the Bank and the Board of Directors and any other Relevant Person (refer to definition in section III).

Section VI. IDENTIFICATION OF CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

The Policy on managing conflicts of interest shall identify the main sources of conflicts of interest the Bank is or may face.

VI.1. Criteria for identification of conflicts of interest

In order to identify situations in which a conflict of interest may arise, the Bank shall take into account the interests of the clients as well as the duty of the Bank towards the clients.

In determining whether there is, or may be, a conflict of interest to which this Policy applies, the Bank considers whether there is a material risk of damage to the client or to the Bank's reputation, taking into account whether the Bank or a Relevant Person or a person directly or indirectly linked to the Bank:

- Is likely to make a financial gain, or avoid a financial loss at the expense of the client or service provider;
- Has an interest in the outcome of services provided or transactions carried out on behalf of the clients, which is distinct from the client's own interests;
- Has an interest in the agreement of the contract of services between the sub-contractor and the Bank;
- Has a financial or other incentive to favor the interest of another client or group of clients over the interest of the client;
- Carries out the same business as the client;
- Receives or will receive from a person other than a client an inducement in the form of monies, goods or services in relation to a service provided to the client or in relation to the contract established by the sub-contractor and the Bank. Other than the standard or commission or fee for that service.

In order to identify all possible types of conflict of interest arising from the combined provision of central administration/depositary and/or ancillary services and/or other activities, a list of the potential situations of conflict of interest which the Bank could face has been developed as a result of the activities and services provided.

How can I recognize and manage potential conflicts of interest?

- Think about how your actions would look to others;
- Disclose activities up front, especially if you are unsure about potential conflict;
- Talk to your Head of Department or to the Compliance Department if you have any question.

What types of relationships could cause a conflict of interest?

- A direct supervisory relationship with a family member or close friend;
- A working relationship where the employee may have the ability to favorably impact compensation, work conditions or promotions prospects of a close friend or family member;
- An outside activity, external directorship or work arrangement that interferes or competes with the Bank's business activities.

What are some examples of conflicts of interest I may face as an employee of the Bank?

▪ Managing dealings with the Bank

Employees might use products and services of the Bank under certain circumstances and internal rules, which could also benefit to their friends and family members. Employees of the Bank must make sure that all their personal, family and friends' dealings with the Bank are handled at arm's length, independent of their specific relationship with the Bank, by following relevant procedures for the business and activities carried out.

▪ Managing working relationships with family and friends

It is possible for employees' relationships to have an effect on their work at the Bank. Employees must understand the actual or perceived effects that personal relationships can have in order to avoid situations that would reflect negatively on the Bank. There is no substitute for good judgment and common sense. If employees are in doubt about a relationship that may put the Bank in a conflict of interest, they should speak with their Head of department or with the Compliance department.

Loyalty can become conflicted if friends or family members work for a company that does or seeks to do business with the Bank as a Bank's client or supplier. This is especially likely to be a problem if it happens to those who are involved in the approval or selection process, contract negotiations or relationship management with the Bank's clients or suppliers. In such cases, employees must inform the Compliance department of the Bank.

▪ Managing outside activities or work

Some employees may take on additional work or activities outside their work at the Bank. This may take the form of part-time work elsewhere, volunteer activity or a personal business run from home. No matter the type of work, these additional activities must not be with one of the Bank's competitors. They must also not interfere with the Bank's responsibilities towards its clients. Employees must be aware of actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interest related to outside activities and must disclose and obtain approval for them from the Compliance department of the Bank.

▪ Managing external directorships

Some employees may choose to take on directorships or similar roles in other companies, organisations, clubs, associations or foundations. In that case, the role must not compromise the employee's ability to do his/her best work for the Bank and its clients. Employees must be careful to avoid actual, potential or perceived conflicts of interests and potential reputational issues. Roles and relationships must be identified and assessed to ensure full compliance with this Policy. Any directorship or similar relationship shall be notified to the Compliance department of the Bank.

▪ Managing gifts and entertainments

It is common to foster relationships by exchanging courtesies such as meals, gifts and entertainments. Employees must ensure that gifts and entertainments they accept are not intended or designed to influence their business judgment on behalf of the Bank and which may affect its clients. In addition, employees must never give gifts or entertainment intended to inappropriately influence someone else's business judgment. Employees must take extra caution when the intended recipient of a gift or entertainment is a public official.

Gift definition: a gift is anything of value given or received in relation to the Bank's business.

Entertainment: an entertainment includes any event the Bank hosts or attends for business-related-purpose. Common examples include meals, sporting events, and educational events. Entertainment should always be in good taste and consistent with usual business practice. Employees must avoid entertainment that is too lavish or expensive because it may also be seen as influencing our judgment.

VI.2. List of potential conflicts of interest identified by the Bank

Please refer to Appendix I of this Policy presenting a (not exhaustive) list of potential conflicts of interest identified by the Bank. Note that the list of current conflicts of interest is logged in a separate register maintained by the Compliance Department outside of this Policy.

Section VII. APPROACH TO MANAGE CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

It is more preferable to prevent a conflict from happening than to solve the conflict. The Bank must ensure that the employees engaged in different clients and/or different business activities involving a risk of conflicts of interest carry out these activities, having a degree of independence which is appropriate to the materiality of the risk of damage to the interests of the clients.

The Bank has put appropriate measures and procedures in place to prevent conflicts of interest, which include the following:

VII.1. First principles

Where the Bank has, or may have a conflict of interest, or material interest in relation to a transaction, or an interest that is, or may be in conflict with the interests of any of its clients, or clients with conflicting interests in relation to a transaction or a service provided by the Bank, it must not proceed to that transaction or must not provide that service to the client, unless it takes reasonable steps to ensure fair treatment for the client. Such reasonable steps may include:

- i) Disclosing the conflict, or interest to the client and/or how it would be managed, and/or obtaining their consent to proceed and disregarding the material interest/conflict of interest pursuant to the concerned service provided by the Bank and/or the planned transaction;
- ii) Declining to act for the client where it is inappropriate or impossible to manage the conflict/material interest;
- iii) Implementation of ad hoc specific information barrier or other additional information segregations methods following consideration of all the facts available;
- iv) Third/party evaluation; to ensure that transactions are fair and impartial (“arm length”), it is often prudent to get an independent advice for parties involved in a specific transaction.

Where, in the opinion of the Bank’s Authorized Management and Chief Compliance Officer, no other arrangements put in place by the Bank is sufficient to ensure, with reasonable confidence, that risks of damage to the interests of a client would be prevented, the Bank will disclose the nature and/or the sources of the conflict of interest to the client (step i) above). Such disclosure will be made in writing and will include sufficient details to enable the client to make an informed decision about the services provided by the Bank, or about investing in the funds.

Whatever the situation, disclosure does not exempt the Bank from its duty to manage conflicts of interest in order to prevent abuse and to give protection to the client. Disclosure to clients is a measure of last resort that can be used only where the organizational and administrative arrangements established by the Bank to prevent or manage its conflicts are not sufficient to ensure, with reasonable confidence, that the risks of damage to the interests of the clients will be prevented. Over-reliance on disclosure of conflicts of interest shall be considered as a deficiency on how conflicts are prevented and managed.

When disclosing a particular conflict of interest, disclosures shall meet the following conditions:

- Be made in a durable medium;
- Include a specific description of the conflict of interest;
- Explain the general nature and/or sources of conflicts of interest, as well as the risks to the client that arise as a result of the conflict and the steps undertaken to mitigate these risks; and
- Explain that the firm's organizational and administrative arrangements are not sufficient to protect the client.

VII.2. Provisions on employee remuneration

The Bank has in place a Remuneration Policy which is designed to reward "staff" in a manner which recognizes the long-term interests of clients and the firm and to discourage inappropriate behavior and that meets requirements of the CRD IV and MiFID II regulation.

In particular, the remuneration (fixed and variable) of the control functions will be ultimately overseen and approved by the Board of Directors in order to preserve the necessary degree of independence of those functions.

VII.3. Employees' personal investments, directorships and outside positions

Where employees are involved in social organizations or other commercial companies, or when an employee has a financial interest in other companies or initiatives, they must ensure that this involvement does not lead to any conflict of professional and private interests or to a compliance risk for the Bank.

Directorships of companies external to the Bank and other outside interests may create a potential conflict of interest and therefore are required to be disclosed to the Compliance department of the Bank and Authorized Management for assessment and approval.

VII.4. Personal Account dealing

Employees do not have the possibility to have a personal account dealing at the Bank level and are not allowed to trade by using the systems of the Bank. For further reference please refer to PAD internal Policy.

VII.5. Inducement, gifts and entertainment

The Bank will not accept, or offer a fee, commission or other non-monetary benefits that is likely to conflict with the Bank's duties to act in the best interest of its clients. The Bank has a documented Gift and Entertainment Policy designed to prevent the offering or receipt of substantial value. The Policy takes into consideration both the value and frequency of gifts and entertainment that could give rise to actual or perceived conflicts of interest.

VII.6. Confidential information and the “need to know” principle

The Bank has effective procedures in place to protect confidential information entrusted to it and to control the flow of information within the Bank and related entities, such as its branch. Maintaining that trust requires the Bank to handle others’ confidential information carefully. The mishandling of information could hurt the Bank’s clients and other parties. In addition, acceptance of client confidential information creates a legal responsibility on the Bank’s side and mishandling it could have severe consequences (such as legal claims or penalties from data protection authorities).

For these reasons, the Bank has adopted a Personal Data Protection Policy specifying how non-public information obtained from a client or potential client shall be treated as confidential and shall not be shared outside the Bank, unless explicitly permitted by the terms of a confidentiality agreement.

Internally, the Bank operates on a “need to know” basis. Confidential information may be disclosed only to those persons who need it to serve the legitimate interests of the clients and who can be expected to keep it confidential.

VII.7. ☐ Managing conflicts of interest involving related parties

The transactions with related parties are subject to the Board of Directors’ approval where they have or may have a significant and negative impact on the risk profile of the Bank. The rule shall also apply where, in the absence of any significant impact on each individual transaction, the influence is significant for all transactions with related parties.

Any material change in the significant transactions carried out with related parties shall be brought to the attention of the Board of Directors as soon as possible. Material changes in significant transactions must be reported immediately to the supervisory body.

Transactions with related parties must be carried out objectively and, in the institution’s, best interest. The institution's interest is not met if:

- The transaction is on less favourable terms than those offered to third parties (i.e., not at arm's length).
- It impairs solvency, liquidity, or risk management.
- It exceeds the institution’s risk management and control capacity.
- It violates sound and prudent management principles.

Transactions with related parties must follow the same internal controls as other institutional transactions.

Section VIII. MEASURES TO MONITOR CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

VIII.1. Recordkeeping

- List of potential conflicts of interests

The Bank maintains and regularly updates a record of the types of activities carried out by or on behalf of the Bank in which conflicts of interest entailing a material risk of damage to the interests of one or more clients may arise. The information contained within this register facilitates the effective identification and management of any potential conflicts of interest. Management must receive on a frequent basis and at least annually, written reports on those activities. Please refer to Appendix I of the Policy.

- List of current conflicts of interest

The Compliance Department maintains a separate register with the list of current conflicts of interest notified to it and which have arisen along with mitigating measures to prevent those conflicts.

Any conflict which arises will be logged in this register by the Compliance department based on its own analysis and will be promptly reported to the Authorized Management and the Board of Directors upon occurrence and via the quarterly compliance reporting to the attention of the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors.

VIII.2. Escalation and reporting

Each employee detecting a situation entailing a material risk of damage must immediately report this situation to the Chief Compliance Officer and to the Authorized Management by using the form included in Appendix II of this Policy.

Where the Chief Compliance Officer and the Authorized Management note that the conflict of interest is acceptable in the frame of this Policy, they may formally authorize it.

VIII.3. Information to investors/clients

When the internal measures adopted by MIBL for the identification, prevention, management and monitoring of conflicts of interest are not sufficient to reasonably guarantee the mitigation of risks for the interests of its client's, MIBL may inform in a direct way the investors/clients, ahead of any action taken on their behalf, about the general nature and the source of such conflicts of interest, and adequate mitigating measures will be developed in a timely manner.

It is worth mentioning that the register of potential COI is freely available on the internet website of the Bank in addition.

VIII.4. Ad-hoc monitoring

The Compliance department monitors compliance with this Policy on a regular basis and as part of the Compliance Monitoring Plan of the Bank.

Based on the results of the monitoring, the Compliance department will provide recommendations to the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors on how to enhance this process. Material breaches will be reported to the Executive Committee and the Board of Directors.

Section IX. MEASURES IN CASE OF NON-COMPLIANCE WITH THIS POLICY

All employees as well as the authorized management and members of the Board need to understand and comply with this Policy. In case of non-compliance, disciplinary action may be taken by the Bank against a director, officer or employee, including the termination of the employment contract.

Section X. ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

X.1. Responsibilities of the Board of Directors

The Board of Directors is responsible for approving the Conflict of Interest Policy initially, and at least annually going forward. Board members that are subject to a conflict of interest shall promptly inform the Authorized Management or the Board of Directors, respectively, on their own initiative. They shall also abstain from participating in the decision-making processes where they may have a conflict of interest or which prevent them from deciding with full objectivity and independence.

X.2. Responsibilities of the Authorized Management

The Authorized Management of the Bank will:

- Be responsible for ensuring that the Bank's systems, controls and procedures are adequate to identify, prevent, manage and monitor conflicts of interest;
- Be responsible for preventing adverse effects from conflicts of interest for the operations they are in charge of;
- Respond appropriately in the case of any risk of causing adverse effects from conflicts of interest;
- Be responsible for approving/authorizing any conflict of interest together with the Chief Compliance Officer, where appropriate mitigating measures are in place;
- Be in charge for the definition of appropriate corrective action(s) in relation with recommendation(s) issued by the Internal Control functions;
- Be responsible for disclosing any conflict of interest to the client where there are no sufficient mitigating measures in place to ensure, with reasonable confidence, that the risks of damage to the client will be prevented.

X.3. Responsibilities of the Internal Controls functions

Internal controls functions as a whole will:

- Assist in the identification and monitoring of actual and potential conflicts of interest in close collaboration with the Heads of departments, and report to the Authorized Management and the Board of Directors on any new conflict identified and proposals in order to manage such conflict;
- Be in charge of the periodical review, and at least annually, of the Conflict of Interest Policy, and report to the Authorized Management and the Board of Directors on the results of such review as part of the Internal Audit Reports and Compliance Reports and issue recommendations to the Authorized Management to address any weakness and deficiency identified.

The Compliance Department of the Bank will:

- Be responsible for maintaining version series, original requests and supporting documentation evidencing the formal approval of this Policy by the relevant bodies of the Bank;
- Use all reasonable endeavours to ensure that the Policy remains current and applicable to the structure and the size of the Bank as well as the nature, scale and complexity of the Bank's central administration/depositary activity;
- Be responsible to collect, record and report to the Authorized Management and the Board of Directors any conflict of interest (potential, perceived, actual);
- Ensure appropriate communication arrangements are in place to raise awareness of employees on internal rules which apply to them in the frame of this Policy.

X.4. Responsibilities of Employees

Overall, executives and employees must:

- Manage conflicts of interest that unduly harm interests of customers appropriately with the awareness of the potential of conflicts of interest based on the Conflict of Interest Policy established by the Bank;
- Not engage in any act with conflicts of interest that unduly harms the interests of clients, except where:
 - The contract with a customer states that it is allowed to create a conflict of interest;
 - The material facts of conflicts of interest have been disclosed and an approval from a client is obtained covering the act that may constitute a conflict of interest;
 - It is clear that the interests of customers will not be unduly harmed due to, among other reasons, a strict information management framework established.

In addition, executives and employees:

Conflicts of Interest Management Policy

- Will promptly report/escalate any type of conflict (potential, perceived, actual) they may be aware to the Compliance department and the Authorized Management;
- Must consult the Chief Compliance Officer and Authorized Management and seek their formal assessment and approval on the situation of conflict in question where employees or Head(s) of department(s) are unsure whether a conflict exists.

Conflicts of Interest Management Policy

Appendix I: List of potential conflicts of interest

This list of potential conflicts of interest has been defined based on the Bank's business activities, nature, scale and complexity of its activities. Please note that the Bank only provides central administration and depositary services for several types of funds (e.g., UCITS, AIFs) and other ancillary services, such as cash management/treasury services. The Bank does not provide any private banking/discretionary activities.

This list will be updated on a regular basis by the Compliance department and, at least once a year as part of the regular review process of policies and procedures of the Bank, in order to take into account evolutions in its organization and its activities (including any new service/activity provided).

The register of the potential conflict of interest is maintained in a dedicated document, for reference below is the inventory updated last year.
